Olivia Glennon

org.glennon@gmail.com
oliviaglennon.com

Olivia Glennon is a project lead, developer, designer, and product owner at Fathom Information Design in Boston. She has worked with clients in a variety of sectors with a focus in science research and communication and healthcare including Mayo Clinic, the CDC, the Massachusetts DPH, The Broad Institute, GE, National Geographic, JP Morgan, and MetLife. She has given talks and led workshops at universities and organizations including Mayo Clinic, Harvard University, Cooper Union, and Condé Nast, and also helped organize the first Processing Community Day at the MIT Media Lab.

Fathom Information Design, Boston, MA
Senior Development Lead and Product Owner 2020–Present
Responsible for leading teams made up of designers, developers, and analysts on client projects; outlining next 3-6 months of project schedules and team assignments; leading product development on internal and client-funded products from high-level goals and vision, scheduling, sprint development, to user stories and individual feature wireframes; contributing directly as a fullstack developer and ux + visualization designer; outlining individual project schedules, deliverables, and SoWs; managing Fathom website and publicly documenting work including write-ups and photography; presenting work and representing the company publicly for clients and at events.

Project Lead and Designer/Developer 2017–2020
Responsible for leading teams made up of designers, developers, and analysts on client projects; quickly iterating through and building interactive prototypes to explore data; building final Java and web-based application deliverables; designing data-driven interfaces for client projects; outlining project schedules, deliverables, and SoWs; managing Fathom website and publicly documenting work including write-ups and photography; presenting work and representing the company publicly for clients and at events.

Junior Designer/Developer August 2014–2017
Responsible for quickly iterating through and building interactive prototypes to explore data; building final Java and web-based application deliverables; designing data-driven interfaces for client projects; presenting work and representing the company publicly for clients and at events.

Cooper Union Continuing Education, New York, NY
Instructor and Information Design Education Consultant 2021-2023
Responsible for developing and teaching courses and workshops in creative coding (p5.js) and Information Design. Assisted in development of potential certificate programs and acted as a field expert to guide program development.

Dow Jones/Wall Street Journal, New York, NY
UX Design and Developer Intern 2013-14
Designed and developed components for new editorial tools. Responsible for developing wireframes, designing interfaces, and building out modules with Angular.js and D3.js for wsj.com and internal products. Wrote production-ready code and assisted with large-scale code deployment on wsj.com.

Education	Cooper Union; New York, NY – BFA with focuses in Graphic, Web, and Interactive Design 2014
Code	Well-experienced with JavaScript, Processing, Java, p5.js, D3.js, Python, git, SQL
	Has collaborated in Elixir, Angular.js
Other	Agile Scrum training (2014)